HOT STONES TO THE RESCUE

Absolutely

Pictured here is Monika Hartwig, certified massage therapist and practitioner of the Hendrickson method orthopedic massage. According to Monika, this precise modality will address your pain and chronic tension with noticeable results after six sessions. In addition to massage, Monika also offers craniosacral therapy and hot stone treatments. The heated stones are applied during a 90 minute massage to provide deep relaxation; this process stimulates the lymphatic system with a cleansing effect. Monika can be reached at Heptagon Individual Fitness, 1137 D San Antonio Road in Palo Alto.

JULIE HAENER TO SPORT DRAGONFLY SPRING TRENCH

KTVU Fox 2 news anchor Julie Haener is really getting into the spirit of Chinese New Year. During her broadcast coverage of the 2007 Chinese New Year Parade in San Francisco on March 3, Julie will wear a custom tailored silk trench coat by Chinese designer Esther Yei Shih of Far East Living. Julie says, "I've always just worn something red during my coverage each year of the Chinese New Year Parade. This year, I thought it would be nice to wear something Asian inspired to reflect the festive mood and theme of the parade." Owner and designer Esther Yei Shih has also recently made pieces for other notable celebrities including Oprah Winfrey, Ellen DeGeneres, Mariska Hargitay and Kate Bosworth. To complement the Asian-inspired apparel, Far East Living also offers treasures imported from China, Vietnam, Indonesia, and Thailand including handbags, fashion accessories, home décor, furnishings, accents and many unique and hard-to-find gifts. Shoppers will also discover handcrafted jewelry and fine art by local artisans. Far East Living's distinctive offerings truly capture the essence of timeless Asian style. Far East Living is located at 540 University Avenue in Palo Alto. For more information, go to www.fareastliving.com or call 328-0800.
